THE CITY SHOULD OWN THE GAS PLANT, as it owns the water plant, to preserve any private corporation from trafficking in a public necessity for profit.

YPSILANTI DAILY PRESS

THE CITY SHOULD OWN THE GAS PLANT as an invaluable aid in promoting its industrial and general welfare. Not to do so is to invite an additional 30 year industrial handicap.

REBEL TROOPS COMING NORTH

Insurrectos Advance toward Jaurez and Tie up Railroad.

CHIHUAHUA IS AGAIN ISOLATED

Durango Still Cut Off from Railroad Communication, While Peace Reigns Temporarily at Velardena.

El Paso, Tex., April 12.—Insurrectos have advanced north, according to the prediction. Whether the main Madero force is enroute to Juarez, or whether some small bands cut it, is not known, but the Mexican Northwestern railroad, the Pearson road, is tied up again. Officials in Juarez if they know what the trouble is, declined to state.

Torreon reports that Durango is still cut off from railroad communication because of burned bridges and that the road between Chihuahua and Torreon is again cut. This is confirmed from Chihuahua in telegrams and once more Chihuahua is isolated completely. Velardena, state of Durango, is again a city of peace temporarily at least. Breaking into three bands the insurrectos have withdrawn from outside the city, just as their forces did at Zacatecas.

Twenty miles south of Cananea the federals advancing on Arizpe encountered a band of insurrectos mining the road with dynamite and killed almost a score, routing the entire command, of which a number were Americans.

The women folk of the entire Terrazas family passed through here enroute to California. They have not been in Chihuahua, their home, for several months and are now leaving Mexico City. The war in Chihuahua was brought about to a large extent by the Terrazas family.

Reports of outrages on Americans came from Caliacan, Sinaloa. An American, William McElroy, fell in with a band of insurrectos near Higderas De Ballaca, about ten days ago on his way from Caliacan to the mines in Badiraguato. They relieved him of his mule, saddle, rifle and pistol. He was allowed to go on foot unmolested.

Dr. William Newby, an American, was taken in hand by the insurrectos at Chacala, Durango, recently and put through a course of horrors.

The federal grand jury refused to return an indictment against Martin Casillas, an insurrecto colonel, arrested on a charge of violating the neutrality law. It was on his person that papers were captured which led to the issuance of a warrant for the arrest of Francisco I. Madero, and resulted in the flight of Madero from El Paso to Mexico.

Peeper Caught and Fined.

Saginaw, Mich., April 12.—After causing considerable trouble for the past week in one section of the city, where he terrified women and children by peeking in windows, John Robinson was arrested and fined $25.

CROUL IS RELEASED UPON PAYMENT OF $4.15 IN THE LOCAL COURT

Joseph Croul who was arrested Tuesday night on a charge of drunkenness was arraigned this morning before Justice Stadtmiller and pleaded guilty. The justice allowed him to go on suspended sentence on payment of costs, $4.15.

BALLARD RESOLUTION PASSES

Wisconsin Legislature Commends La-Follette and Condemns Stephenson.

Madison, Wis., April 12. — The Ballard resolution condemning Senator Isaac Stephenson for his vote to permit Lorimer to retain his seat and commending Senator LaFollette, for his vote, was passed by the senate.

It now has passed both houses of the legislature. Two senators, Herry and Lyons, voted against the resolution.

BUCKET SHOPS CLOSE WHEN BILL PASSED LEGISLATURE

Omaha, Neb., April 12.—Following the passage last Saturday of an anti-bucket shop bill by the Nebraska legislature, it is announced that all the bucket shops in the state, numbering between thirty and forty, were closed, although the law is not effective for ninety days.

Only two of the concerns were operating in Omaha.

COMMITTEE LIST ADOPTED

House Ednorses Work of Chairmen of Two Parties.

Washington, April 12. — The House has adopted the committee list made up and submitted by Representatives Underwood of Alabama and Mann of Illinois, leaders respectively of the majority and the minority. This was the final report of the committee on committees, the reform plan adopted by the Democrats in the organization of the house.

A resolution offered by Mr. Shirley of Kentucky making an appropriation to defray the expenses of the joint committee on revision of the laws failed of passage. More than 150 bills were introduced in the house.

RAINEY ASKS FOR INQUIRY

Illinoisan Wants to Know if Wickersham Should be Ousted.

Washington, April 12.—Representative Rainey of Illinois in a resolution introduced in the house proposes an investigation of the department of justice concerning proceedings instituted under the Sherman anti-trust law and subsequently dropped, and as to whether Attorney General Wickersham has outside employment which would disqualify him for his position in President Taft's cabinet.

M. E. SUNDAY SCHOOL BOARD ELECT OFFICERS

The annual meeting of the Methodist Sunday school board was held last evening in the church edifice, with forty present. The potluck supper served first was extremely well balanced for something that is a mere matter of chance, only coffee and accessories having been arranged for by the committee. Rev. Mr. Leeson provided ice cream for the last course. After supper was cleared away, the tables were placed in as good a semblance to a circle as may be effected with square tables and all gathered around to transact business. The pastor presided.

The most important matter that confronted the meeting was the selection of a superintendent to succeed Arthur Fullington, as in his service extending over several years he has made a record so good it is a difficult one to follow. His contemplated removal to Vancouver necessarily precludes his acceptance of the position for another term. It was finally determined that the selection should be confined to a committee which should report on its choice after prayer-meeting Wednesday evening.

Other officers were elected as follows:

Assistant superintendent, A. A. Parsons.

Second assistant, Mrs. F. M. Beall.

Secretary, Mrs. Chester Alban.

Assistant secretary, Miss Cora Peterson.

Treasurer, Clarence Sanderson.

Assistant treasurer, Harry Smith.

Chorister, Mrs. W. H. Deubel.

Organist, Minor White.

Superintendent of missionary work, Mrs. A. A. Parsons.

Superintendent of temperance work, Mrs. Martha Warner.

Superintendent of junior league, Mrs. Deubel.

Librarian, Miss Carrie Lewis.

The annual reports indicated that the financial condition of the Sunday school was at its best and that many improvements had been effected in the way of changing partitions, etc. The average attendance has been 334, the average collection, $3.56. The smallest attendance was 116 and the smallest collection, $2.55, while the largest number present, not including special days, was 550 and the largest collection was $8.07.

Don't forget O'Connor's Easter Opening Thursday and Friday.

OBSEQUIES OF JOHNSON

No Funeral Services Are Held in Cleveland.

Corpse Is Enroute to Brooklyn, N. Y., to be Interred in Greenwood Cemetery.

Cleveland, O., April 12.—There will be no funeral services for Tom L. Johnson in Cleveland. The body was removed from the Whitehall, where Mr. Johnson died, to the Johnson family apartments in the Knickerbocker and was taken to the Union passenger station, to be conveyed to Brooklyn, N. Y. The burial will take place at Greenwood cemetery there Thursday forenoon at 11:30, and the only service will be conducted there by the Rev. Dr. Harris R. Cooley.

The Cleveland pallbearers were A. B. Dupont, Newton D. Baker, C. W. Stage, Frederick H. Goff, Peter DeWitt, W. B. Gongwer, Fred A. Alber and John N. Stockwell. These men bore the casket while it was in this city. The pallbearers who will act in New York will be William Jennings Bryan, C. M. Bates, Benjamin T. Cable, A. J. Moxham, Lincoln Steffens, Henry George, Jr., August Lewis and Phillip A. Brennan.

Progressive Republicans Who Hold Balance of Power In the Senate Between the Regulars and the Democrats

Twelve senators, practically one-fourth of the Republican membership, have formed themselves into a clique under the progressive banner and have demanded full recognition from the majority as the price of peace and harmony. These men, banded together, will be an important factor and must be reckoned with hereafter if the Republicans are to pull together as a united party. It is apparent that they will hold the balance of power between the regulars and the Democrats. In addition to the senators whose pictures are reproduced herewith, Bristow of Kansas, Dixon of Montana, Gronna of North Dakota and Clapp of Minnesota are in the clique.

COUNCIL WILL HAVE OFFICIAL BRIDGE MEETING

It is expected that a report will be received within a few days from two members of the state railway commission and Bridge Inspector Dickerson of Lansing who have been inspecting the Congress street bridge as to its safety during the past few days. For some time past the bridge has been considered unsafe and the city officials deemed it best that a thorough inspection should be made immediately by experts that necessary precautions might be taken to prevent any accident for which the city might be held responsible.

The question of the width for safety for the proposed new bridge over which the D., J. & C. tracks run was also considered. The present bridge is too narrow for a car and a wagon to pass and the city insists that the new bridge shall be wider. The D. U. R. is willing to pay half for a new bridge the width of the present one but dispute the right of the city to make them pay half for a wider bridge.

MUNICIPAL OWNERSHIP OF PUBLIC UTILITIES CONSIDERED ABROAD

The Ypsilanti Gas company is circularizing the citizens of Ypsilanti with a reprint of the arguments it has gathered to support the feasibility of the city renewing its franchise for thirty years. Toward the end it asks, "Has municipal ownership of gas works been successful? We challenge would-be investigators to find a single example of a successfully operated municipal gas plant."

The question of municipal ownership of public utilities herein adjudged so difficult, is one which is engaging the attention of Milan, Italy, at the present time, according to the last Consular and Trade Report. The contract of a large private Italian electric power company, La Societa Edison de Elettricita, expired in 1904. Anticipating this, the city itself decided to go into the electric-power business and supply its own needs, and, later, the people's as well. The generating station has been in operation since June, 1905, and already the city's competition has resulted in a reduction in the prices of electricity charged by private companies.

In Ypsilanti a fully-equipped gas plant is ready at hand and would necessarily be in the market. In Milan, the power had to be conveyed across the country for more than 93 miles. It has been estimated that Milan will reap an annual profit of $92,040, and in time the city will be able to extend the application and use of its electricity and enjoy the profits accruing from supplying light and power more generally.

YPSILANTI GIRL MAKES GOOD IN TEACHING HER SPECIAL WORK

The Clinton Democrat has the following to say of the work of Miss Beatrice Barlow of this city who is teaching physical training in the public schools of Clinton:

"The ease and precision with which the children went through the complicated and difficult figures and exercises gave evidence of the long and careful training given them by Miss Beatrice Barlow, who is teacher of physical training in our public schools."

"Altogether " was a very enjoyable and profitable evening and one that evidenced the fact that the school children are profiting greatly by their physical training."

The Fowler News has the following to say of the manual training work:

"Passersby at the Osgood's furniture store have been much interested by the window display of the work done this year by the manual training classes in the public schools under the tutilage of Miss Beatrice Barlow. The display contains specimens of carpentry work, and of basket weaving. The neatness of the work and the practical nature of the articles made by the students speak well for the practicability of the manual training course in the public schools of this city."

PUZZLE EXPERT LOYD DEAD

Built Up Fortune of $1,000,000 by Amusing Readers of Newspapers.

New York, April 12.—Sam Loyd, the well known puzzle expert, whose problems have interested not alone the rising generation but others, died at his home in Brooklyn from a stroke of apoplexy. He was seventy years of age.

In his unique calling he built up a fortune that has been estimated at more than $1,000,000.

METHODIST MEN WILL MAKE NEEDED LAWN IMPROVEMENT

Thursday a "bee" for beautifying the Methodist church grounds will be held soon after the noon hour. Men interested in the church who have teams will gather on the church premises and haul away the topmost stratum of earth and bring back a load of rich soil in which to plant the shrubbery which has been ordered. This shrubbery will be massed principally at the corner, to discourage crossing and the consequent wearing away of any grass which might be planted.

The setting out of vines to run over the church edifice is likewise contemplated. Men, teams, spades, dirt, are all needed in quantities to accomplish all that is planned at one time. It is expected that the men afterwards will repair to the supper which will be in progress at Mrs. Deubel's not far away.

NEW STEERING COMMITTEE NAMED

Washington, April 12.—Thomas S. Martin of Virginia, the newly elected minority leader of the senate, announced the personnel of the Democratic steering committee which is to make the committee selections for the minority in the senate. The new committee is made up of Senator Martin, chairman, and Senators Culberson of Texas, Simons of North Carolina, Clarke of Arkansas, Bankhead of Alabama, Fletcher of Florida, Williams of Mississippi, Kern of Indiana, and Hitchcock of Nebraska.

In the selection of the committee Mr. Martin has recognized two of the newly elected members who lined up with the so-called progressives in opposition to his candidacy for the minority leadership of the senate. The new senators are Kern and Hitchcock. Seven members of the committee are from the south and two from the north or west.

OBJECTS TO TEACHING OF THEOLOGICAL PROFESSOR

Pittsburg, April 12.—Acting under the leadership of Rev. Dr. W. L. McEwan, pastor of the Third Presbyterian church, this city, the Pittsburg Presbytery took the initiative in a new heresy hunt which is directed against the doctrines being promulgated by Rev. Dr. William Adams Browns at the Union Theological seminary.

It was charged by Dr. McEwan that the teachings of Dr. Brown on the inspiration of the Bible and on miracles are not in accordance with the orthodox teachings of the Presbyterian church and he made a demand that this presbytery have Dr. Brown brought before the general assembly next month at Atlantic City.

AGREE TO BOOST FOR RECIPROCITY

House Caucus of Democrats Decides on Action.

PRESIDENT'S PLEDGE ACCEPTED

Bill to Place Many of Necessities of Life on Free List Will Then be Brought in and Passed if Possible.

Washington, April 12. — Canadian reciprocity will be the first thing considered by the house of representatives. Accepting Mr. Taft's pledge that he would not prorogue congress, the house caucus of Democrats decided to act on reciprocity first and then to bring in a bill putting many of the necessaries of life on the free list.

The free list bill which will be brought into the house will include the following articles: Agricultural implements, such as plows, harrows, reapers, binders and mowers, boots and shoes, saddles and saddlery, wire fencing, baling wire, cotton bagging and ties, coarse sacks, burlaps, lumber, flour, dressed meats and meat products and sewing machines.

Within two weeks the Democrats will hold another caucus to decide upon their course with regard to the woolen and cotton schedules. It is inevitable that they will take action on tehse schedules, but after ways and means committee has decided on the reductions that they think are proper they desire to have the entire Democratic membership get together and give their endorsement to a bill embodying the committee's recommendations. The ways and means Democrats desire to get the reciprocity bill through the house and over to the senate and to act upon the general measure carrying the above items before taking up any further details of the tariff.

THE CHALLENGE OF SPRING.

The tramp is not the only specimen who responds to that inward command at springtime of 'Move on.' Ambition rises with the thought. New resolves awaken with the coming of the robin, and the plans for another year, which have been moulding through the dormant winter months, begin to take on form; and he who does not plan a better year, who does not accept the challenge of spring, is abnormal, or so advanced in years as to be spending his time mainly in enjoying the springs of yesterday. The prospective and the perspective have given way to the retrospective.

The important thing is to recognize an opportunity when it comes along. And a still more important thing is to create an opportunity, for we have optimism enough to believe that the days of opportunity, of splendid opportunity, are not past, that these days are normal days and present their full quota of opportunity for everybody who looks about him and determines to make the most of what he finds.

These days though breed the tramp spirit, a sort of uneasiness, a sort of wish to push the horizon back and see what is behind it to believe that the best things are not here and available, but yonder and still yonder, and opportunity after opportunity is passed by on the highway of seeking. And a sufficient amount of energy which, applied to the opportunities at hand would have spelled success, is lost in the trudging. You do not have to go a long journey in order to witness signal successes in your particular and preferred line of endeavor. Study the object lesson nearest home and revitalize your own plant. Profit by the demonstrated success of your neighbor and improve on it.

Here are a couple of verses, "Old Man Opp," from the National Magazine for March that will bear clipping and pasting in the scrapbook face up:

Old Man Opp

By John Nicholas Beffel

"Some men are so disrespectful to Opportunity that they refuse to speak to him on the street and others are so irreverent that they talk of him behind his back as 'Old Man Opp.'"

The best friend that you've got in all the world is Old Man Opp.
He passes by your house each day an'
always makes a stop.
But if you're wathcin' for him, he will help y' mow your hay.
He isn't blessel with time, of course;
he hasn't long to stay,
An' Old Man Opp will help y' beat th'
Gloom God's line of dope;
He'll boost y' up th' ladder with a fresh supply of hope.
You'd better fix those shaky steps, an'
oil your front-yard gate.
Or there comes a low-toned rappin'
not muct time to wait.

When y' hear a spooky tappin' on th'
frosted window pane,
Or there comes a ow-toned rappin'
through th' fallin' o' th' rain,
Don't get frightened at it, neighbor, though you're shy of guns an'
lead;
Don't think it's some bold burglar who would steal your stove and bed.
Don't let your face get scared nor think that bad men lurk outside,
But beat it toward the sound you hear an' ope' th' front door wide.
The wolf was out there yesterday,
with his dentistry in view.
But now it's likely Old Man Opp—who wants to talk with You!

A New Mouse Trap.

A new sort of mouse trap was invented the other night by a copy boy in a newspaper office. Tying a string about the neck of a milk bottle he stood the bottle on its side in the room where the mice were. Then he put a piece of cheese in the bottle and went to an adjoining room. After half an hour's wait a mouse entered the bottle. The boy pulled the string, which was run over the top of a chair. The bottle ascended and the mouse was caught. In the meantime a lot of copy waited to be sent to the composing room.

HAIR DROPS OUT

Many People Have a Simple Way of Stopping It.

It was Dr. Sangerbund, of Paris, who first discovered that dandruff and falling hair were caused by microbes.

And now that Parisian Sage, the remedy that kills the dandruff germ is sold in every town in America, the clean people of this country have awakened to the fact that dandruff is unnecessary; that falling hair and itching scalp can be quickly stopped, and that peaple who use Parisian Sage will never grow bald.

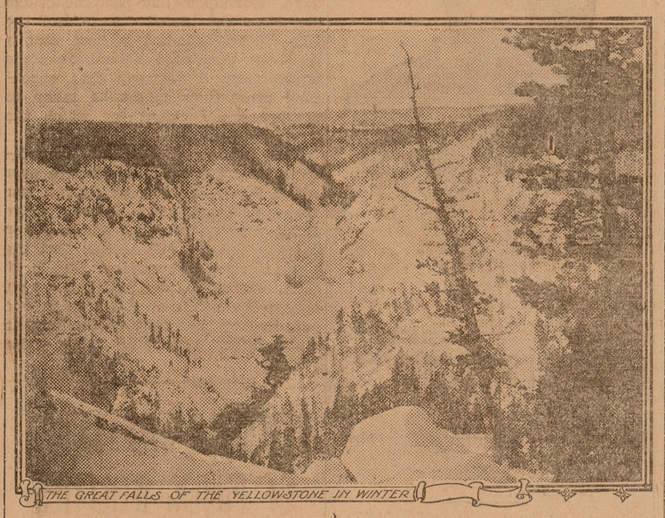
To every reader of the Ypsilanti Daily Press who wishes to eradicate disgusting dandruff, stop falling hair, and have an immaculately clean scalp, free from itchiness, we make this offer:

Duane Spalsbury will return your money, without red tape, if Parisian Sage does not banish dandruff, stop falling hair and itching scalp in two weeks.

Parisian Sage is sold by Duane Spalsbury and druggists everywhere for 50 cents a large bottle. It is an ideal, daintily perfumed hair dressing, free from grease and stickiness, and will cause hair to grow lustrous and luxuriant. Mail orders filled, charges prepaid, by Giroux Mfg. Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

The Yellowstone National Park in Winter

An Aspect of Nature's Wonderland That Few Ever See



THE GREAT FALLS OF THE YELLOWSTONE IN WINTER

THE polar regions are hardly less accessible than the Yellowstone National park—the greatest playground of the American people—is in winter. This is scarcely conceivable, for in summer 40,000 visitors now find it one of the easiest places to reach and to travel through.

Lieut. Frederick Schwatka made an attempt to explore the park in January nearly 25 years ago. He had returned not long before from an expedition in search of Sir John Franklin's party that had perished in the arctic regions. Before that he had been on a 3,000-mile sledge journey in the frozen north and had suffered terrible hardships. On his trip into the Yellowstone Park Lieutenant Schwatka was accompanied by a large, well-organized party. They traveled on Norwegian skis and Canadian web snowshoes; but the snow was so light that it would not support them, and their toboggans were exceedingly difficult to draw. It took them three days to cover 20 miles. Lieutenant Schwatka, inured as he was to such hardships, fell ill and was unable to proceed. He and all the rest of the party but four of the sturdiest men turned back. The photographer, F. J. Haynes; Edward Wilson, a government scout, and two others kept on. It took them 29 days to make the circuit of the park, 200 miles. The thermometer ranged between 40 and 50 degrees below zero most of the time, and the adventure nearly cost them their lives.

Winter Population of the Playground.

The total winter population of the park is usually between four and five hundred people. These include three troops of cavalry. The cavalry can use their horses only during the summer months. During the winter they are stabled at Fort Yellowstone. The stage horses are driven down to the lowlands, miles away, when the tourist season is over, and graze in the sheltered valleys there until the snows melt.

In the great hotels that are thronged during the tourist season live only the caretakers, generally two in each place, a man and his wife. The first blizzard isolates from the world outside everybody in this great national domain that has an area of 3,312 square miles. No valley within its limit has an elevation of less than 6,000 feet, while many of the mountain peaks within and near the park rise from 10,000 to 14,000 feet above sea level. Yellowstone lake, 15 by 20 miles in size, is the largest body of water in America at that altitude, 7,741 feet above the sea. On the summit of the range, a few miles south of Yellowstone lake, is Two Ocean pond, a small lake with two outlets, one into the Atlantic through the Yellowstone and Missouri rivers, the other into the Pacific through the Snake river, a branch of the Columbia. The Grand canyon of the Yellowstone, ten miles long, has an average depth of 1,200 feet, and is the most brilliantly colored landscape in existence. But in winter everything is blanketed with snow eight to ten feet deep. All is ice-bound except the more than half a hundred great geysers that throw their columns of boiling water hundreds of feet in the air, almost as little seen by humankind as when they began their spoutings ages ago.

From December to March the enforced dwellers in the park are nearly as much cut off from the world as though they were penned in by the polar ice. Of course the telephone and the telegraph bring them scraps of news from the outer world, but the only way of getting about is on snowshoes or skis. Even then the distances between the places where the people live are so great and the ways so dangerous that few venture forth. Only the government scouts, whose duty it is to look after the wild life in the park and see that it is not molested by poachers, get out at all. The rest of the people there are like the bears—they hibernate until spring. An ample supply of fuel and provisions is laid in before the first snowstorms begin to sweep over the Continental divide, and there is little to do until the sun swings northward and the snows melt.

Building a Hotel Amid Arctic Temperature.

Despite the arctic rigors of this region, however, 250 men have been fighting the cold there this winter completing the fifth of the big hotels that are the halting places of tourists in this summer playground that belongs to the people of the United States. The first order prepared on the kitchen ranges of this new hostelry which stands on the brink of the great precipice down which roars endlessly the mighty cataract of the Yellowstone, was for nails. Nails big and little, brads and spikes, ten-pennies and shingles, had to be heated on the cookstoves before the carpenters could handle them. The reason for this haste was that the new hotel had to be finished in time for the summer season, when the park is in its brief period of verdant glory.

More people will go to the Yellowstone National Park this year than ever before. In 1872, when the federal government dedicated it "as a public park or pleasure ground for the benefit and enjoyment of the people," probably not more than a thousand persons a year were visiting it. In the next twenty-three years the number of visitors climbed slowly to about 5,000 annually. In 1895, the authorities began counting the persons who entered the park, and complete records have been kept ever since. There were 5,438 visitors in 1895. Ten years later the number had risen to 26,188. In 1906, it dropped to 17,172. The next year it fell off nearly a thousand. In 1908 the total was 18,748. Then came the most remarkable increase in visitors that the park has ever known. In 1909 there were nearly twice as many (32,545) as the year before. This was principally due to the opening of a new railroad gateway to the park—at Yellowstone, Mont.—which made it much easier of access.

A Bit of E. H. Harriman's Wizardry.

This came about through a visit that the late E. H. Harriman made to the park in the summer of 1904. He was so impressed by the wonders of the park that he immediately ordered the location and construction of a branch from the Oregon Short Line, a part of the Union Pacific system, to the western border of the park. This road, from Idaho Falls to Yellowstone, Montana, 20 miles from the lower Geyser basin, was finished November 12, 1907, and was opened for traffic the following June. It is 107 miles long and cost nearly $2,000,000. Its construction called into play the greatest energy and skill in the science of railroad building.

Owing to the deep snows and severe winters work could be carried on during only about four months of the year. But in that brief season, a vast army of men and machines toiled night and day. The giant mountain barriers with their deep valleys in between had to be conquered. That part of the earth where the rails ran had to be remodeled so as to secure the safest and easiest grades. Probably no railway, where so many obstacles had to be overcome, ever was built in so short a time. But the largely increased number of visitors to the park has proved that the new line is fully appreciated. Of the more than 40,000 who entered the park last year nearly half went by this new western gateway that Mr. Harriman created.

The government scouts who are guardians of the wild creatures are about the only ones who ever see much of the winter beauties of the park. Those who have been there any length of time have learned much that is new about the habits of the animals that abound there, although they are chiefly concerned in keeping poachers out of the park. There are fewer of these now than there used to be, because heavier penalties have been laid by the government on those who are caught.

The few that do venture in the park mostly come in winter. Then there is less chance of being detected, but more risk of losing their lives in the cold and snow. One thing more than all others tempts them—the buffalo. Unscrupulous taxidermists will pay the weight in silver for a buffalo head nowadays, for these heads are practically unattainable by legitimate means. The rest of the wild creatures that make their homes in the park are seldom molested.

Poaching in the Deep Snows.

It has been 17 years since one of these poachers after buffalo has been caught, but he did so much damage before he was arrested that it has taken a long time to make up for it.

Early in March, 1894, a party was organized at Fort Yellowstone for the purpose of visiting the winter ranges of the game to ascertain the exact number of buffalo that still existed and to photograph them. The party traveled on Norwegian snowshoes, with packs of sleeping bags, provisions and camera, directly to Hayden valley via Norris and the Grand canyon. They found 81 buffalo in the valley, together with numerous small groups of elk aggregating more than 300.

In a secluded spot toward the end of the second day's march they discovered the cache of a poacher. They were much surprised at this, as they had had no idea that there was any one in the park killing game. The cache consisted of a canvas tepee, sleeping bag, provisions and toboggan, and they found six buffalo heads suspended in a tree nearby. A trace of fire in the tepee led the scouts to believe that the poacher was not far away. To capture him was the next move. It had been snowing constantly all the morning, and all the snowshoe tracks leading from camp were entirely obliterated. The scouts separated and went in different directions.

When five miles from camp one of them heard a half dozen rifle shots in rapid succession. Hastening through the timber in that direction, he came upon an opening in the forest and saw the poacher. He had driven six of the buffalo into the deep snow and had slaughtered the entire band. The scout was alone and armed only with a revolver. Poachers of this kind are desperate men. They know that the arm of the federal government is long and its grip sure once it seizes them. Therefore they fight to the last. No desperado is more reckless of his life. The scout knew this, but did not hesitate for a moment. It was still snowing hard, and neither the poacher nor his dog noticed the scout's approach. The scout was within 20 feet of the poacher and had him covered with his revolver before he told him to throw up his hands. A moment more, and he was disarmed. Then he was handcuffed and taken to the guardhouse at Fort Yellowstone. He had killed about one-eighth of all the buffalo in the park.

Elks and Bears Very Comfortable in the "Big Cold."

There are about 250 buffalo in the park now. To protect them more effectually against poachers about 200 are kept in an inclosure and have become partly domesticated. The remainder run wild in the country to the east of the Yellowstone lake.

Fully 5,000 elk winter in the foothills of Mount Washburn, on Specimen ridge, along the east fork of the Yellowstone and along the main stream of that river clear to the base of Mount Evarts. During the winter the elk live in "yards"—places 500 to 1,000 feet in diameter, where they keep the snow trodden down. The bull elks patrol these "yards" at night so as to keep away the mountain lions and other animals that prey upon them.

The elks shed their horns about the first of March, and until they grow out again lead a quiet life so that their sprouting horns will not be injured. At the time when they shed their horns they are still herded together, and now and then a scout will run across some secluded spot in the primeval wilderness where the ground is covered with two or three score of these great antlers, some of them six or seven feet long. They are allowed to remain where they are, for it is not permitted to take them from the park or even to use them for decorative purposes there. But before the end of the next winter they disappear. The field mice and other small rodents eat them.

The bears that are seen around the hotels in the summer time, stealing garbage or fighting the searchlight when it is turned on them at night, go into winter quarters in November or December and sleep until spring. There are hundreds of them, black, brown and grizzly. They go into caves or hollow logs or under the roots of trees that the snow will cover. There are many natural caves in the park. Sometimes four or five bears will snuggle up to each other in the same cave and sleep the winter away. It is in winter, too, that the cubs are born. When the baby bear comes into the world he is not much bigger than a rat, but he grows and grows in his cave, kept warm by his mother until spring. When he emerges into the light he is a full grown cub, quite able to take care of himself and fight anything of his size.

OLD FAITHFUL GEYSER, WINTER

A Paradise for Wild Things.

Millions of trout come up into the smaller streams to spawn in the spring. Bears live mostly on berries and fish, when they can get them. Since there are no berries in the spring the bears break their fast on fish. They wade into the creeks and scoop them out with their paws. When the little bears get tired of catching fish in the shallow pools they go hunting for moles and work as industriously as puppy dogs digging them out of the earth. Springtime, when the bears are lean and hungry, is their busiest time.

Three-fourths of the park is a dense forest, a primeval wilderness. Away from the few hotels, the roads and the trails the park today is what it was before even a Pharaoh reigned in Egypt. It is such a paradise for the wild things that roam at will there that they have less to fear, even from each other and from the elements than anywhere else in the wilderness. When the fury of the winter storms drives the elk, deer, mountain sheep and antelope into the sheltered valleys and canyons they have nothing to be afraid of except the pelting driven steel-dust of the mountain blizzards. Nature is kind even to the birds. On the great terraces where the stupendous springs of hot water

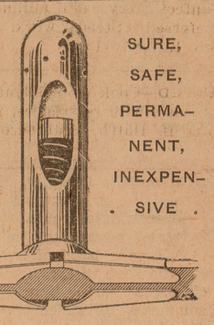
A CURE for PILES and CONSTIPATION



SURE, SAFE, PERMANENT, INEXPENSIVE.

Even with the wonderful advance made by science in combining the diseases of mankind PILES have remained one of the most widespread and most serious causes of suffering. There are today in this country many thousands of people who are suffering untold agonies from piles and other rectal troubles.

If you are one of these sufferers the news of the invention of the NATURA AUTOMATIC MEDICATING DILATOR will mean a new lease on life to you.

The use of this device means a CURE—it has cured thousands, it will cure YOU. It stimulates the action of the bowels, it benefits the entire nervous system, and its effects upon the diseased parts are such as to make a recurrence of the trouble impossible.

Its small cost puts it within the reach of every sufferer.

THE YELLOWSTONE

flow incessantly gather great flocks of wild ducks and other fowl.

In this region, nearly 8,000 feet above the sea, where the mercury sinks away below zero from December to March, there is far more wonder and mystery in midwinter than the summer tourist ever gets a hint of. Civilization is miles away across a wilderness of shining, snowclad mountains. The gale-driven snow dances over this waste and is piled into fantastic drifts. Sometimes it is swept with a roar through the mountain gorges faster than the swiftest railway train ever traveled. It covers to the eaves some of the big hotels. In summer times these places are buzzing with life, but in winter they are pictures of desolation, almost indistinguishable from the rest of the landscape beneath the enshrouding snow. If the caretakers wish to get out they have to obtain exit from a window on one of the upper floors. Tall trees buried in the snow appear like bushes. The general aspect of the country is entirely changed.

Masses of Purest White in Place of Brilliant Hued Rocks.

The incomparable wonder of the Grand canyon of the Yellowstone, that huge gash in the earth whose walls glow with every tint of jewels and flowers, is a mass of purest white save where here and there the winds have swept away the snow and left the brilliant-hued rocks exposed. Their reds and yellows and purples and crimsons glow the brighter in contrast with the surrounding whiteness. The black foliage of the pines stands out sharply. Where the water slides over the precipice and forms the Great Falls of the Yellowstone, it roars down as white as carded wool. Down at the bottom of the gorge, where the waters are swift and deep, they are black. There are immense icicles 200 feet long. An ice bridge a hundred feet high is formed at the base of the falls.

The great geysers play endlessly, each at its appointed period, although no one is there to see them. Every seventy minutes Old Faithful sends its columns of water and steam 300, 500, sometimes 1,000 feet into the air and holds it there for three minutes. Sometimes the winds unfold from its top an iridescent banner of spray; at other times the fountain form is a perfect cone. In winter its boiling hot water gives off a vast cloud of drifting steam. At nightfall of a January evening, this immutable water clock of the Yellowstone becomes a specter of ghostly white, a sight so strange and startling that even those who neighbor with it never lose their awe of its majesty. All about the geysers the foliage of the trees is heavily laden with ice, giving the trees a thousand fantastic shapes. A cloud of vapor, like the steam from some great manufacturing city, hangs and drifts over the geyser basins—the workshop of nature.

The "Sisterhood" of the Geysers.

There are more than fifty in this giant sisterhood of geysers. Not even in Iceland or New Zealand, or anywhere else where the earth is still being made is there such a convent of their order as in the Yellowstone. No one has ever been able to describe them adequately in words any more than it has been possible to tell on the printed page the extent of the wonders in this "workshop of the Almighty." It is a place where almost every form of creative eccentricity in nature is found.

But the geysers play unseen, and the agents that are molding the earth keep at their tasks in solitude all winter long. The great streams and waterfalls never rest in their toil of tearing down the heights and building up the valleys. Only during three months of the year is it possible for many people to see this Titanic work of Nature in progress. If those who travel for pleasure every summer knew how curious and beautiful a place the park is, there would be as great an influx of visitors between the 15th of June, when the season begins, and the 15th of September, when it ends, as now sail away to Europe for rest and play.

To get to the new gateway to this wonderland by the most direct route the traveler branches off from the main line of the Union Pacific at Ogden, Utah. A night's ride in a Pullman lands him at Yellowstone station, the western entrance of the park, ready for the 158 mile tour in the Monida and Yellowstone stages that are awaiting him. The trip through the park may be made in five days, or it may be cut down to two by visiting the region of the geysers alone.

Many, Many Wonderful Things.

There are many wonderful things on the road before one gets to the Yellowstone park, however. Going west from Ogden on the Union Pacific is one of the most stupendous pieces of railway engineering in the world, the great Salt Lake cut-off that was constructed at a cost of $6,000,000 to save forty-three miles of the distance between Ogden and San Francisco. It crosses the Great Salt lake at its deepest portion and is 102½ miles long. Some of the best engineers in the world pronounced this cut-off impossible, but it was built and is one of the unique features of American railroading.

Another thing that attracts travelers is Salt Lake City itself, which has been constantly in the public eye ever since it was a little huddle of wagons in the wilderness more than three generations ago. In many ways it is one of the most remarkable cities in the world, and as the seat of power of the religious empire of the Mormons it is unique. The Tabernacle, with its great organ, the biggest in the world, and the other notable buildings have been described over and over again, but no words or photographs can picture them adequately any more than they can a bath in the lake itself—in water in which one cannot sink.

To get to the Yellowstone National park or to Salt Lake City is now one of the easiest things imaginable. The directions are simple: You go to Ogden by the Union Pacific, the new and direct route, turn to the north for the park and to the south for the "City of the Saints."

The "First Man on the Ground."

It is just a hundred and four years since the Yellowstone territory was discovered. A trapper and hunter found it. He was one John Colter, a private of the famous Lewis and Clark expedition. When, in 1806, this distinguished band of pioneers retraced their steps and started back to St. Louis over their route that eventually opened up the great northwest Colter broke away. All by himself, he set out for the headwaters of the Missouri. He was practically forgotten when, four years later, he came into St. Louis, tattered, torn, Indian-like in his ways, but bubbling over with enthusiasm.

He had seen the most wonderful place in the world, he said, where steam came out of the earth and scalding water leaped miles high, where there were diabolical furnaces under ground. It would have been the "abode of the damned," he said, but for the fact that there was no sign, for hundreds of miles, of human beings. Surrounded by the curious, John Colter talked for days of the wonders he had seen. And he met with the fate of many; no one believed him.

He told of too many wonders. St. Louisans marveled, then laughed, then for many a long year spoke of "Colter's Hell." They thought he had imagined it all.

But Colter, trapper, pioneer and discoverer, proved exactly right. It was not until thirty-four years later that he was found to have told the truth. Bridger, the noted guide, confirmed his romantic story.

30 Years Of Success

THE WEINMANN-MATTHEWS CO. OFFER A REMEDY FOR CATARRH. THE MEDICINE COSTS NOTHING IF IT FAILS.

When a medicine effects a successful treatment in a very large majority of cases, and when we offer that medicine on our own personal guarantee that it will cost the user nothing if it does not completely relieve catarrh, it is only reasonable that people should believe us, or at least put our claim to a practical test when we take all the risk. These are facts which we want the people to substantiate. We want them to try Rexall Mucu-Tone, a medicine prepared from a prescription of a physician with whom catarrh was a specialty, and who has a record of thirty years of enviable success to his credit.

We receive more good reports about Rexall Mucu-Tone than we do of all other catarrh remedies sold in our store, and if more people only knew what a thoroughly dependable remedy Rexall Mucu-Tone is ,it would be the only catarrh remedy we would have any demand for.

Rexall Mucu-Tone is quickly absorbed and by its therapeutic effect tends to disinfect and ceanse the entire mucous membraneous tract, to destroy and remove the parasites which injure the membraneous tissues to soothe the irritation and heal the soreness, stop the mucous discharge, build up strong, healthy tissue and relieve the blood and system of diseased matter. Its influence is toward stimulating the muco-cells, aiding digestion and improving nutrition until the whole body vibrates with healthy activity. In a comparatively short time it brings about a noticeable gain in weight, strength, good color and feeling of buoyancy.

We urge you to try Rexall Mucu-Tone, beginning a treatment today. At any time you are not satisfied, simply come and tell us, and we will quickly return your money without question or quibble. We have Rexall Mucu-Tone in two sizes, 50 cents and $1.00. Remember you can obtain Rexall remedies in Ypsilanti only at our store,—The Rexall Store. The Weinmann-Matthews Co., 118 Congress St.

Salt Fish For Lent.

The season of Lent is now with us, and there are still a certain number of people who fast during this time and invariably make a point of having salt fish on Ash Wednesday. Many people shudder at the idea of salt fish at all; but, properly treated, it is by no means to be despised. Too often, however, the necessity for sufficient soaking is not realized, with the consequence that when served, if it be eaten at all, whoever ventures on it literally feels he or she is performing a penance. First of all, having procured the salt fish, let it soak for several hours, placing it under the tap if possible and letting the water slowly run on to it. Should this, however, not be feasible, soak it in plenty of cold water, changing this fairly often and having the last water tepid. Then next it should be soaked in skimmilk or milk and water for several hours longer, soaking it in all for twenty-four hours. Having gone through this process, it should be simmered in half milk, half water, with a very little salt, and then it may be served with a variety of sauces. Often the fishmonger will claim that the fish has already been steeped. Should this be so the soaking in cold water may be omitted, but on no account should the steeping in milk and water be forgotten. Treated thus, the flesh will be white and firm and most palatable.

To Use Ham.

Sliced ham is more tender if it is baked than if fried. Cut a slice three-quarters of an inch thick, put it into a small enamel pan, turn three-quarters of a cupful of milk over it, cover and bake for an hour and a quarter, basting every fifteen minutes with milk.

For luncheon grind the ends of a boiled ham and mix it with a button onion that has been chopped fine and a little minced parsley. Put the mixture into a pan with a little butter and moisten with hot water or cream. Simmer four or five minutes and then heap on slices of toast.

For curly bacon cut it very thin and half cook it in boiling water, then curl it, fasten in shape with a toothpick and broil it over the fire.

A little grated American cheese mixed with minced ham used in sandwiches is delicious if the sandwich is fried brown and served very hot.

Cold ham is tasty if it is shredded and cooked in currant jelly sauce. Put a cupful of the shredded ham into a saucepan with a level tablespoonful of butter and half a cupful of currant jelly. As soon as the jelly and butter begin to bubble add four tablespoonfuls of sherry and a seasoning of paprika. Simmer the mixture about five or six minutes and serve with toast.

Flowers For Dinner Table.

From now until the close of the spring season there are no more attractive decorations of a simple order for the dinner or luncheon table than those of spring flowers arranged in attractive baskets. Charming baskets which are suitable for this purpose are to be had at many of the department stores and at the Japanese shops. The basket may be in any shape that is quaint or beautiful, and daffodils, cowslips, lilies of the valley and lilac branches look lovely when arranged in them. The bottom of the basket is filled with fresh damp moss and the stems of the flowers are thrust into this. If the flowers are to appear for a long time in public and there is danger of their wilting, the bottom of the basket may be fitted with a shallow pan filled with water and the flowers placed in this. The moss may then be tucked in around the stems of the flowers.

Genuine Southern Corn Bread.

To make the genuine southern corn bread it is essential to have the genuine southern cornmeal. If you can get the genuine meal, therefore (water ground), make your cake in this way: Beat two eggs very light. Add to them one pint sour milk or buttermilk and a pint of the meal. Melt a large tablespoonful of butter and add to the mixture, together with a tablespoonful of soda dissolved in a small portion of the measured out milk. Beat very hard and bake in well buttered pan in a quick oven.

Good Biscuit Recipe.

A never failing rule for biscuit calls for four cupfuls of flour, a tablespoonful of sugar, a teaspoonful of salt, two rounded teaspoonfuls of baking powder, a piece of butter the size of an egg and two cupfuls of milk. After sifting the flour, salt, sugar and baking powder together rub the butter through the mixture and stir in the milk. Stir the batter as little as possible, only just enough to mix it. Bake in a quick oven and serve piping hot.

Raisin Puffs.

Cream one rounding tablespoonful of butter with one-quarter of a cupful of sugar, add one beaten egg in one-half a cupful of milk and three-quarters of a cupful of seeded and chopped raisins. Add lastly one cupful of flour sifted, with a level teaspoonful of baking powder. Fill small buttered molds three-quarters full of the batter and steam for forty minutes. Serve with a liquid sauce.

Longevous Geese.

Geese will live to a great age, and some few years ago I came across a very venerable goose (male or female I cannot now say) in Wesmoreland in unexpected circumstances. I was walking from Milnthorpe to Arnside, and at Ganaside found an acquaintance sitting on a seashore bench feeding a pet goose with biscuits steeped in ale. He told me that this goose had been in his family for over forty years and was partial to beer stout, and even gin. One of the most remarkable records of the longevity of geese with which I am acquainted is to be found in an old book entitled "Travels in Scotland," by the Rev. James Hall, M. A., London, two volumes, 1907. On a visit to a Mr. Charles Grant of Elchies, Stirlingshire, the author was informed of a gander that had been killed by accident after living at the same place for "above eighty years."—G. W. FREE SAMPLE CURED OLD PERSON'S BOWEL TROUBLE

One of the most remarkable proofs of the unusual laxative merit contained in Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is that it is effective not only in people in the prime of life, but at the extremes of ages. As many letters are received from mothers regarding the cures of children, as from men and women of sixty, seventy and eighty years of age. It must be truly a wonderful laxative.

In the cure of constipation and bowel trouble in old people it has no equal. It corrects the constipation, dispels the headache, biliousness, gas, drowsiness after eating, etc. People advancing in years should see to it that their bowels move freely, and if they do not to take Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. You can prolong your life by healthy bowel action. Clogged bowels invite disease. Women about to pass the menstrual period cannot do better than use Syrup Pepsin several times a week until the system has settled to its future condition.

Among the strongest supporters of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin are Mr. W. G. Zorn of New Decatur, Ala. and Mr. George S. Spaulding of the National Soldiers' Home, Kansas, both elderly men. The regular size bottles can be bought of any druggist at fifty cents and one dollar, but a free sample bottle can be had by sending your address to the doctor.

Dr. Caldwell does not feel that the purchase of his remedy ends his obligation. He has specialized in stomach, liver and bowel diseases for over forty years and will be pleased to give the reader any advice on the subject free of charge. All are welcome to write him. Whether for the medical advice or the free sample address him Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 541 Caldwell building, Monticello, Ill.
